

KeepSight
with diabetes

How to ask your patients if they wish to sign up to KeepSight

Below are some suggested options you can use to explain KeepSight and seek consent from a patient with diabetes to sign them up.

- As part of your diabetes eye screening today, I will send your GP a report and can sign you up with KeepSight. KeepSight will remind you when you are due for your next diabetes eye check. Is that okay?
- As with all health screenings associated with diabetes, I will send a report of today's visit to your GP. I can also sign you up with KeepSight, which will ensure you receive regular reminders about your next diabetes eye check. Is that okay?
- As part of the diabetes eye check, I will be sending a report to your GP and I can also sign you up with KeepSight. KeepSight will send you a reminder when you are due for your next diabetes eye check. Is that okay with you?
- A diabetes eye check is an important regular check-up if you have diabetes. I'll be sending a report to your GP and can sign you up with KeepSight. KeepSight is a reminder service whereby you'll get an email, letter or SMS reminding you when your next diabetes eye check is due. Is that okay?

For more information, visit keepsight.org.au